

hi. we're
community
mission financial and we're banking on a better way

what's a better way ?

Call us crazy. But we believe putting people first is a better business model, even for a bank. So we launched an innovative plan to directly serve the financial needs of the communities we love. A relationship management company that can still offer almost all banking and financial services as a traditional bank. But this one focuses people, community, and a strong mission to serve them both. That's what we believe in .In fact, we're banking on it

our services

our story

.Our founders have thirty-six years of combined banking experience And we each came to the job with the same desire: to provide for our families through financially-minded community service. But over the last decade, we became convinced that true service is hard to achieve within a traditional banking model. So we engineered a whole new kind of bank. One with agility that a traditional bank often covets. And with ?this agility comes one question. How can CMF work for you
